The prince in “The Happy Prince,” a story written by Oscar Wilde, is a man who has it all. He is wealthy, powerful and good looking, but he is not very happy at all even though everyone calls him the Happy Prince. In fact, he is an elegant golden statue who stands high on a hill, overlooking the city and often stays up at night weeping. From where he stands, he can see the whole city and the misery of his people, which causes him great sorrow.

Fortunately, the Happy Prince meets a swallow who is able to understand his sadness and willing to help him in an unexpected way. The swallow helps the Happy Prince not only take the jewel from his sword and eyes but also the strips of gold that cover his body to help the poor and those in need. After seeing the prince become blind and ugly, the swallow promises to stay by his side. In the end, however, the swallow dies from the cold of the winter. In God’s eyes, the Happy Prince’s love and the swallow’s sacrifice are the most precious things in the city. Therefore, God finally makes them into two golden statues that stay together forever.

47. Which of the following is NOT the thing that the swallow does to help the prince?
   (A) The swallow takes the jewel to help the poor people.
   (B) The swallow stays around the prince after he is blind and ugly.
   (C) The swallow flies high on the hill and overlooks the city.
   (D) The swallow takes the strips of gold that cover the prince’s body to help those in need.

48. What is another word for wealthy in Line 2?
   (A) rich   (B) faithful   (C) gorgeous   (D) healthy

49. Why is the Happy Prince sad in the beginning of the story?
   (A) He is not powerful enough.   (B) The swallow died from cold winter.
   (C) He has no friends.   (D) The people in the city have miserable lives.

50. Which of the following is true about the story?
(A) According to the story, Oscar Wilde is a man who has it all.
(B) The Happy Prince’s love and the swallow’s sacrifice are highly valued by God.
(C) The Happy Prince loves and cherishes his pet.
(D) God helps the prince and the swallow become real people.
