Questions 41-43 are based on the following facts about Taipei 101

Questions 41-43 are based on the following facts about Taipei 101
Taipei 101 is the world's tallest building, surpassing the height of the PETRONAS Twin Towers in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

The 89th floor holds an indoor observation area, and an outdoor observation deck is located on the 91st floor.

An 800-ton tuned mass damper helps stabilize the tower in high winds and earthquakes. This damper is an enormous ball of welded steel plates hanging inside the top of the building, and is visible from the restaurant and bar which encircles the space around the ball.

The design is inspired by traditional Chinese architecture, with a shape resembling a pagoda. The sectioned tower is also inspired by the bamboo plant, which is a model of strength, resilience, and elegance.

The tower's design specifications are based on the number "8", a lucky number in traditional Chinese culture; it features 8 upward-flaring sections, and is supported by 8 super-columns.

This is one of the few buildings in the world equipped with double-deck elevators. The cost for each elevator is over $US 2 million.

Inside the base of the tower is the large Taipei 101 Mall, which opened before the tower on November 13th, 2003.

41. What does the building look like?
(A) A pagoda  (B) The number “8”  (C) An enormous ball  (D) a double-deck elevator

42. What are the tower’s design specifications based on?
(A) bamboo plant  (B) the PETRONAS Twin Towers  (C) traditional Chinese architecture  (D) the number “8”

43. Which of the following is TRUE about Taipei 101?
(A) The tower was completed on November 13th, 2003.
(B) Taipei 101 has replaced The PETRONAS Twin Towers as the world’s tallest building.
(C) The cost for the elevators is over $US 2 million.
(D) The outdoor observation deck is located on the 89th floor.

Questions 44 and 45 are based on the following paragraph

There are thousands of regularly harvested edible mushrooms and hundreds of thousands of other potentially edible species. Mushrooms were so delicious that the pharaohs of Egypt decreed mushrooms could only be eaten by royalty and that no ordinary people could even touch them, thus giving the royal family the entire available supply. Now you can either cultivate or gather mushrooms, or simply buy them at the market. Of all species, however, the most highly prized are those ones that can only be harvested from natural settings. Top quality truffles from France and Italy are dug out from under the ground by well-trained pigs or dogs, and are more valuable than gold. In Japan, matsutake (pine mushrooms) are highly priced gourmet mushrooms, that cannot be cultivated and are available only in autumn. They are found under pine (matsu) trees, and are most valuable when picked just before surfacing with the umbrella still closed. Matsutake are enjoyed in various ways such as grilled or cooked with rice.

44. In which of the following countries were mushrooms once for royalty only?
(A) Japan  (B) Italy  (C) France  (D) Egypt

45. According to the paragraph, which statement is true?
(A) The most valuable mushrooms are usually cultivated by farmers.
(B) A well-trained truffle-hunting pig is more valuable than gold.
(C) The name matsutake comes from the pine trees.
(D) Top truffles are available only in autumn.

Questions 46-50 are based on the following article

Holidays and festivals in Taiwan may be classified into two categories: holidays and traditional festivals. Holidays are associated with the solar calendar, or the western calendar, whereas festivals are observed according to the traditional lunar calendar.

Like most countries in the world, January 1st is a national holiday in Taiwan. However, when the rest of the world celebrates the day as the New Year’s Day, Taiwan, especially the government, sees it as the Founding Day of the Republic of China. Other holidays are political ones like the 228 Memorial Day and the Double Tenth Day. The only exception is Tomb Sweeping Day. Teachers’ Day and such political holidays as Taiwan's Retrocession Day and Birthday of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, though still called holidays, become days when people “celebrate” and go to work as usual.

For Taiwanese people, the “real” New Year’s Day is the Chinese Lunar New Year that is either in January or February according to the lunar calendar. It is the most important festival of the year and a day for family gathering. Other major traditional festivals include the Lantern Festival, which is a day to discard the old and usher in the new, the Dragon Boat Festival, a time to ward off evil and strengthen the body, and the Mid-Autumn Festival for family reunion and celebration of the full moon.

Both traditional festivals and memorial holidays in Taiwan are celebrated not only in a style unique to the region, but more importantly, in a way that both points out the significance of each occasion and promotes the hope of peace on earth.

46. Which of the following is no longer a holiday when people don’t have to go to work?
(A) Teachers’ Day  (B) Double Tenth Day  (C) Tomb Sweeping Day  (D) New Year’s Day

47. Which is the most important festival for the Taiwanese people?
(A) Teachers’ Day  (B) Mid-Autumn Festival  (C) Lantern Festival  (D) lunar New Year’s Day

48. Which holiday is also the Founding Day of the Republic of China?
(A) Tomb Sweeping Day  (B) 228 Memorial Day  (C) Taiwan's Retrocession Day  (D) New Year’s Day

49. Which of the following is NOT a political holiday?
(A) Birthday of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen  (B) Tomb Sweeping Day  (C) Taiwan's Retrocession Day  (D) Double Tenth Day

50. Which of the following is the best title for this article?
(A) Festivals and Holidays in Taiwan  (B) Chinese New Year in Taiwan  (C) Solar and Lunar Calendars  (D) Promotion of Peace on Earth
